What is the VFO Collective?

Are your ideal clients short on professionals?

- An Advisor.
- An Accountant.
- An Attorney.
- A Bookkeeper.
- Often More.

The Gap

Having the right professionals available is not the same as having a coordinated team.

Professionals aren't doing anything necessarily wrong.

They are each doing their specific job,
but...

- The tax decision gets made with no input on the investment structure.
- The estate plan still reflects circumstances from 6 years ago.
- The business entity hasn't been looked at since it was formed 9 years ago.

The gap is that nobody owns the connective tissue.

The Subtle Distinction

A collection of individual professionals

VS

A coordinated effort between a team of specialists

The Question That Isn't Being Asked Enough...

"Is anyone responsible for making sure all the pieces fit together?"

There is a structure built to own that responsibility.

Family Office Origination

- Started by the Rockefeller family in 1882.
- They were frustrated with various professional specialists giving their family conflicting advice.
- Decided to hire them full time for the family and to work together as a team to form the best possible outcome.

Team Based Model

- Understand & Prioritize Needs
- Address Biggest Problems
- Achieve Most Important Goals

This Isn't a Vendor. It's a Community.

Addressing the Elephant in the Room

One Team. One Framework. Shared Wins.

The VFO model builds trust through structure, not just personality.

It gives both advisors and accountants what they've been missing:

A repeatable way to win – together.

Requires real collaboration.

Not accidental. Not occasional.

It's by design.
